Introduction

The 2018–19 season was a historic one for the Metropolitan Opera. Not only did the company present more than 200 exiting performances, but we also welcomed Yannick Nézet-Séguin as the Met’s new Jeanette Lerman-Neubauer Music Director. Maestro Nézet-Séguin is only the third conductor to hold the title of Music Director since the company’s founding in 1883. I am also happy to report that the 2018–19 season marked the fifth year running in which the company’s finances were balanced or very nearly so, as we recorded a very small deficit of less than 1% of expenses. The season opened with the premiere of a new staging of Saint-Saëns’s epic Samson et Dalila and also included three other new productions, as well as three exhilarating full cycles of Wagner’s Ring and a full slate of 18 revivals. The Live in HD series of cinema transmissions brought opera to audiences around the world for the 13th season, with ten broadcasts reaching more than two million people. Combined earned revenue for the Met (box office, media, and presentations) totaled $121 million. As in past seasons, total paid attendance for the season in the opera house was 75%.

The new productions in the 2018–19 season were the work of three distinguished directors, two having had previous successes at the Met and one making his company debut. After winning a Tony Award in 2014 for his direction of the Broadway hit A Gentleman’s Guide to Love & Murder, Darko Tresnjak brought his theatrical vision to the Met for the first time with the opulent Opening Night staging of Samson et Dalila. Another Tony Award–winner, Michael Mayer returned to the Met to direct both the North American premiere of American composer Nico Muhly’s Marnie and a new staging of Verdi’s La Traviata, the latter marking Nézet-Séguin’s first official performances as Music Director. And with eight prior Met productions to his credit, Sir David McVicar helped ring in the new year with a new staging of Cilea’s Adriana Lecouvreur.

Several of the world’s most celebrated conductors took the podium for the new productions, including Mark Elder, Nicola Luisotti, Robert Spano, and Gianandrea Noseda. Maestro Nézet-Séguin also led revivals of two 20th-century French masterpieces, Debussy’s Pelléas et Mélisande and Poulenc’s Dialogues des Carmélites.

As always, the Met welcomed the world’s best singers, with new productions alone featuring such stars as Roberto Alagna, Piotr Beczala, Diana Damrau, Iestyn Davies, Juan Diego Flórez, Elina Garanča, Denyce Graves, Anita Hartig, Quinn Kelsey, Isabel Leonard, Christopher Maltman, Anna Netrebko, and Anita Rachvelishvili. Revivals, including performances of the Ring, featured Ildar Abdrazakov, Jamie Barton, Angel Blue, Stephanie Blythe, Joseph Calleja, Javier Camarena, Joyce DiDonato, Yusif Eyvazov, Ferruccio Furlanetto, Christine Goerke, Greer Grimsley, Günther Groissböck, Jonas Kaufmann, Tomasz Konieczny, Aleksandra Kurzak, Željko Lučić, Ambrogio Maestri, Peter Mattei, Eric Owens, Ailyn Pérez, Matthew Polenzani, Sondra Radvanovsky, Andreas Schager, Golda Schultz, Nadine Sierra, Stuart Skelton, Stefan Vinke, Michael Volle, Eva-Maria Westbroek, Pretty Yende, and Sonya Yoncheva.

Through the Live in HD series, the Met transmitted performances to 2,309 movie theaters in 72 countries around the world, with total attendance of 2.2 million. The series was once again supported by its founding sponsor, the Neubauer Family Foundation, and its digital sponsor, Bloomberg Philanthropies. This season also marked the first season that Rolex supported the series. The HD Live in Schools program enabled thousands of students in 48 school districts across 38 states to experience live opera performances free of charge. Performances were also shared through Metropolitan Opera Radio on Sirius XM, which presented 71 performances; on the Met’s website, which streamed 33 performances; and over the Toll Brothers–Metropolitan Opera International Radio Network, which broadcast 23 live Saturday performances. The Opening Night performance was presented live to audiences in Times Square for the 13th consecutive year.

A number of new members joined the Board and a few Directors changed categories during the 2018–19 season. Dr. Frayda B. Lindemann is now President and CEO of the Metropolitan Opera, and Tod Johnson is now Vice President of the Board. C. Graham Berwind, III, and Kenneth R. Feinberg were elected Managing Directors; C. Thomas Kunz and Sharon Wee were elected Members of the Association; and Maxwell J. Murphy was elected a Young Associate Director. Noreen Buckfire and Frances Marzio, previously Advisory Directors, are now Managing Directors. Dr. Steve Prystowsky, previously a Member of the Association, is now an Advisory Director. Bryan M. Fabiano and Michael J. Woods, previously Young Associate Directors, are now Members of the Association.

The Board members and I have enjoyed working closely with General Manager Peter Gelb, Maestro Nézet-Séguin, and all the members of the Met company, whom I thank for their work and dedication. I look forward to more successful seasons ahead.

The Arnold and Marie Schwartz Gallery Met

The 2018–19 season featured a season-long show by British-born artist Cecily Brown. Inspired by the Metropolitan Opera House itself, the focal pieces were Triumph of the Vanities I and Triumph of the Vanities II, two large paintings, almost 26-feet in width, on the Grand Tier and Dress Circle of the opera house. Both, made in 2018 with those spaces in mind, were in dialogue with the famous Chagall murals flanking the lobby. The exhibition also included a number of studies on view on the Parterre level and in the north and south lounge areas on the Orchestra level.

The Financial Results

2018-19

2019 Unrestricted Operating Revenues

2019 Operating Expenses

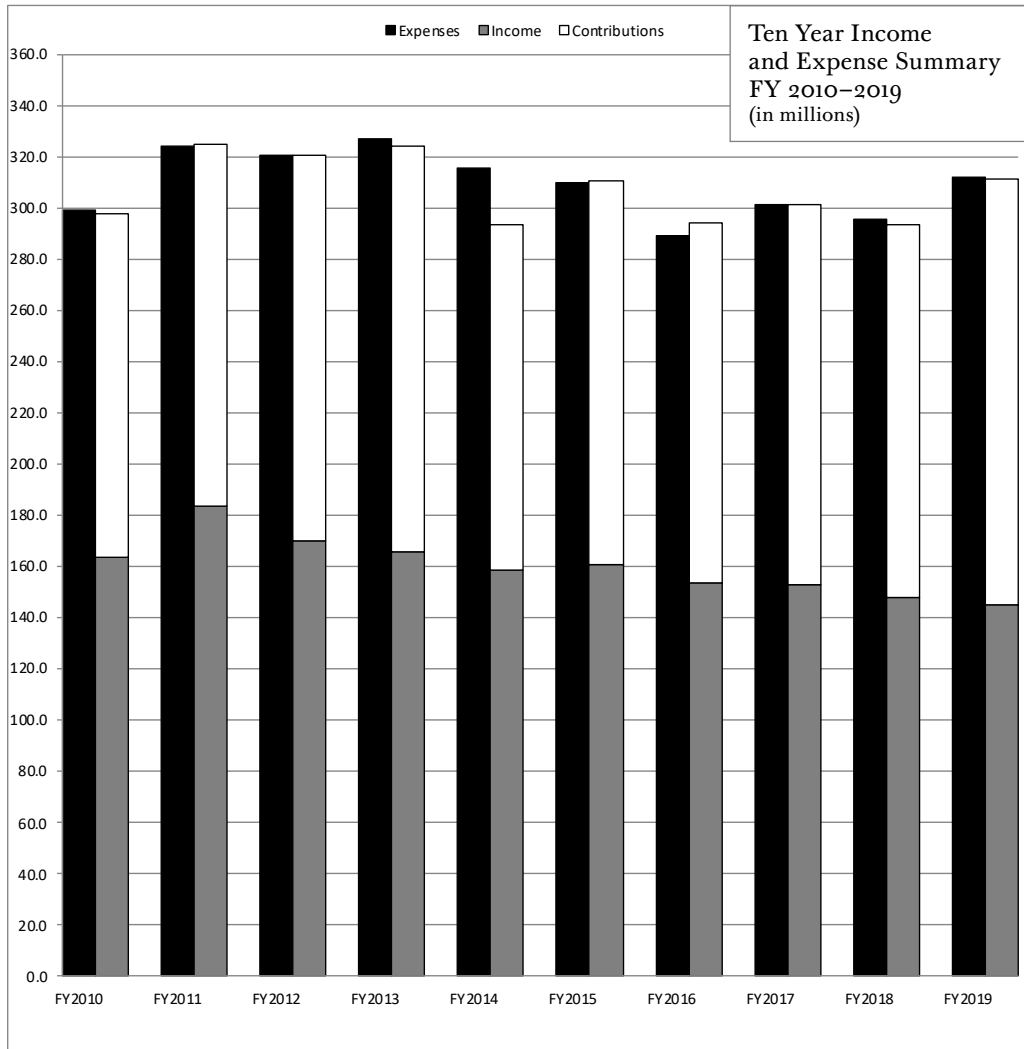

Operating results for the fiscal year that ended July 31, 2019, were close to balanced, with a deficit of $1 million, less than 1% of expenses. Expenses were $312 million, compared to $296 million the prior year. Contributed revenue, including contributions, bequests, and other development revenue released for operations, was $166 million, compared to $146 million the prior year.

Overall FY19 operating revenue totaled $311 million, compared to $294 million in FY18. Operating revenue includes box office revenue from the New York season; media revenue, including Live in HD; presentations revenue; amounts drawn from the Association's endowment; and contributions and bequests (including net assets released from restrictions).

Box office revenues slightly decreased from $87 million in FY18 to $85 million in FY19. Media revenues were steady at $28 million in both FY18 and FY19. Presentation revenue decreased from $9 million in FY18 to $8 million in FY19.

The Association continued to maintain an authorized endowment spending rate of 5%.

Net assets were $148 million at the end of FY19 and $191 million at the end of FY18. The decrease in net assets was largely attributable to a $37 million increase in the unfunded liability for the Met's defined benefit pension plan, which was caused primarily by a decrease in the discount rate. Endowment contributions amounted to $13 million.
